

Longest journey

The focus of this activity is for children to write about something that happened to them in the past. The events should be in the correct order and many of the sentences will have time words in them (next, then, finally, etc).

What to do...

What is the longest journey you have ever been on?

When did you make this journey?

How many different forms of transport did you have to use? (car, bus, train, plane, boat, taxi, etc).

1. Talk to your helper about everything you did.
2. Write an account of your journey using the time words below to help you put it in the correct order.
3. Don't forget to use capital letters and full stops in the correct places!

The longest journey I have ever been on was when I went to visit my Nan in the Kalahari desert. First of all we had to pack a small bag each. Then, at 7am we got on the bus to the train station. Next we had to catch the train to the airport. I liked the train because we could play cards on the table. After that, we had to wait to board the airplane which was late. I really liked the airplane journey, but my little brother was a bit frightened when we took off. When we landed in the desert, my Grandad came to meet us at the airport. He gave us a lift back to Nan's in his car. Finally, we arrived at Nan's burrow at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. What a long journey!
